HEADQUARTERS ISSUES QUEEREST OFFICIAL DECREE

In today's interesting installment from the second series of Lloyd George war memoirs, of which the most interesting and sensational portions have been receiving exclusive advance publication in The Bulletin, Lloyd George sums up some of the evil consequences of the tragic Passchendaele offensive, pointing out the first British attack on November 1917, started out "brilliantly successful, but was negated for lack of reserves with which to follow up the initial break-through. Britain's reserves having been exhausted at Passchendaele. This installment contains an interesting, if not complimentary, reference to General Byng's handling of the Battle of Cambrai. Previous installments from The Lloyd George war memoirs have been printed in The Bulletin daily beginning last Saturday.

CHAPTER FIVE
No soldier of any intelligence now doubts these senseless attacks—certainly not one who is not implicated by some share of responsibility for them. Not even the first objective of the campaign had been attained. The fight came to be known as the "Battle of Passchendaele," but the capture of this village gave us only one-fifth of the first ridge which the army had to occupy as a starting-point. It left the army with a narrower salient than the deadly salient of Ypres, which had already cost us so much.

The enemy still surrounded it on three sides, and at some points their lines were nearer to ours than they had been at Ypres. Soon after the termination of the campaign, headquarters realized that at an expense of 400,000 men they had only forced the British army into a more dangerous position than it was in before the battle commenced.

On Dec. 13 G.H.Q. issued one of the most remarkable documents which ever emanated from a victorious staff. It constitutes such a contempt upon the great triumph that I quote textually from it.

The following special instructions are issued to a soldier in the matter of dealing with the Fleets and Passchendaele salients. These salients are unsuitable to fight a decisive battle in. It is, however, desirable to retain possession of them if they are not attacked in great force; and in the event of attack in great force, to use them to wear out

Evident Determination Has Parties All On Qui Vive

VANCOUVER, Aug. 16.—I am not talking, Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, said last night when approached concerning various speculations from eastern Canada concerning his connection with the price spreads and mass buying investigation.

At a public meeting here last night his address was taken up largely with a defense of the Bennett administration.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—The Vancouver speech of Hon. H. H. Stevens has given rise to mixed feelings in the capital and more further perturbation in the west block where the privy council chamber lies.

Outstanding is that fact that Mr. Stevens does not intend to be muzzle, but he has set his hand to the plow and will pursue the future no matter what turns up. It is also evident that Mr. Stevens intends, if he retains the chairmanship of the Royal Commission, to seek some definite steps to remedy the evils exposed.

The chief obstacle to the matter of trade and commerce will face the department from latest antagonism in his own party, will be the question of jurisdiction. The federal authority has sufficient power under the com-

In accordance with this policy the salients will be held firmly up to the battle zone of defense.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act passed last session for the purpose of facilitating compromises and arrangements between farmers and their creditors, will be proclaimed in Saturday's issue of the Canada Gazette.

Immediately the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will come under its operation, and the other provinces of the Dominion and the provinces concerned.

The question of jurisdiction has entered into the administration of the act but friendly compromises have been effected between the Dominion and the provinces concerned.

Under the constitution the federal parliament deals with legislation on bankruptcy and insolvency while the provincial legislatures have control of property and civil rights.

CANT BE FORCED
Under the Bankruptcy Act a farmer cannot be forced into bankruptcy, yet he can voluntarily accept the provisions of the act. This would entail him considerable expense and inconvenience.

The new act simplifies matters. It provides that compromises or arrangements may be effected of the debts of those farmers who are unable to pay but whose statements of affairs and general desire indicate hope of success.

Where the indebtedness is out of all proportion to the assets, in order to make a fresh start the only reasonable course is to seek a bankruptcy discharge, and the act makes provision for such a discharge at little expense to the farmer.

OFFICIAL RECEIVER
The government appoints an official receiver in each judicial circuit in a farming community an official receiver. These officials have not been appointed yet but action will shortly be taken.

The receiver will be the farmer to prepare his statement of affairs and to submit it to the court in which the farmer's affairs are being dealt with, and a compromise arrived at.

BERKLEY BELL UPSETS WOOD

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 16.—Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, N.J., took ranking place in the Newport Casino tennis tourney, today qualified for a semi-finals match against Bryan "Bibi" Grant of A.C. by eliminating the last of the seeded players, J. Gilbert Hall of New York 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Winner Allison gained the second last round by defeating his doubles partner, Johnny Van Dusen of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-3, in a rather tame baseline duel.

Sidney Wood of New York, second seed, was beaten in straight sets by the amazingly improved Berkley Bell, the former tumbler of the Circus, by a 6-4, 6-3, 4-3 margin in a quarter-finals match.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Walter Talbot penitentiary was in a state of siege today, with 1,500 prisoners locked in their cells, following a strike.

Mr. Labatt's release was at Hugh Labatt's hotel, and police dashed over highways and in motor cars searching for the criminals, John Labatt apparently was leaving his abductors on the outskirts of Toronto. Exact location of this release point was a closely guarded secret, the Labatts family refusing any information on this point.

Police officials claimed ignorance of the spot where Labatt was freed, only more details, they said, were available to them. But they were apured into action. General V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, immediately ordered Acting Chief Inspector John Miller of the criminal investigation department to London to continue tracking down the gangsters, described in some reports as members of Detroit's Purple Gang.

Brief announcement came from Chief D. C. Draper of the Toronto police. He said:

"Mr. Labatt was released by the kidnappers on the outskirts of Toronto. He had some experience, but is unharmed and in company of his brother Hugh Labatt is now in London."

While every effort was being made by Hugh Labatt, brother of the kidnapped man, his solicitors and friends to get in touch with them, the kidnappers decided they were in danger of arrest. They believed provincial police were hot on their heels.

RICH BREWER IS CONFINED TO LONDON HOME

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—The ransom money $150,000, demanded in a note signed "Three Fingers Jake," was paid over to the kidnappers according to the Toronto Globe.

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—Darkness that enshrouded the release of John S. Labatt, wealthy brewer of London, Ont., was pierced today when it was learned confidently by the Canadian Press that the kidnapped man had been brought to the hotel from which his brother Hugh conducted negotiations with the abductors.

General V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, this morning said Hugh Labatt who negotiated with kidnappers for the release of his brother John, spent Thursday in Windsor. The statement added further to the mystery surrounding the activities of Hugh Labatt.

The reported Windsor visit recalled reports a rum ring was connected with the kidnapping of John S. Labatt, millionaire London, Ont., brewer.

It was not known why Labatt visited the Border City where Detroit gangsters at time found refuge. It was in Windsor, a gambling ring was smashed three years ago, largely through the work of Inspector H. G. Loughheed who also figured in the kidnapping case.

Labatt's release was in the Toronto vicinity and he was in the hotel with his brother, the room change apparently made to baffle reporters further.

Inquiries at 4:00 a.m. were not answered and the room appeared to be abandoned. Provincial police in room 529 could give no information as to when Hugh Labatt left the hotel nor could they say whether he was with his brother at the time. They stated that no member of the Labatt family remained in room 529.

OTTAWA TERMS ARE ACCEPTED BY PROVINCE

Formal Notification of Alberta's Acceptance Given Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—Formal notification the Province of Alberta, accepts the terms of the federal relief agreement has been received by the Dominion government. The Dominion will pay to the province the sum of $100,000 monthly for direct relief, and will also advance amounts aggregating over $1,000,000 in form of loans to Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge and for certain desired undertakings.

Mr. McGee's claim is that increased mechanical and soil production require a corresponding increase in currency and public credit, and that if this is not forthcoming from financial institutions, that governments should more and more take over the control and issuing of money in the public interest.

Mr. McGee's utterances on monetary questions and his evident grasp of the subject have won warm response in the hearts of Western Canadians. His address on "Money and Credit and Its Management" is equally as enlightening as his "Conquest of Poverty" or his evidence before the Banking Committee.

HAGGARD AND NERVOUS

Early this morning the brothers left the hotel secretly and sped to London where John S. Labatt met his wife and three children. The victim of Canada's first ransom kidnapping was unharmed but haggard and nervous.

With his brother he entered his home and even closest friends were not permitted to disturb him. Complete rest was the order for the millionaire who suffers from a heart ailment, an affliction that caused grave concern while he was in the hands of the gangsters.

Clark Sage of the law firm of Ivey, Elliott and Gillanders, announced the termination of the three-day search for Labatt, a search that saw all the forces of the law available in the province thrown into action.

Attorney-General Vigorously Protests Exclusion of Authorities Now Confronted By "Cold Trail"

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—Mystery still surrounds the Labatt kidnapping case. Although the millionaire brewer has been returned to his home and is now in seclusion there, it is not yet definitely known whether any ransom was paid over for his release or not.

Conflicting reports continue regarding this angle of the kidnapping. The Toronto Globe this morning stated that the ransom had been paid. Canadian Press despatches earlier in the day indicated that the money had been paid over. All first reports from the scene of the release indicated that money had been paid for the kidnappers in accordance with their instructions, but later reports show that there is still a cloud of uncertainty in official quarters as to whether any payment was made or not.

All that is definitely known is that the missing man is again with his family. That money was drawn out of the bank to meet the demands of the kidnappers, and that officials have been kept in the dark as to the actual facts of the release of the millionaire brewer and cannot themselves say if the ransom was effected without payment or whether all or part of the sum of $100,000 was paid over.

In a telephone conversation with London this afternoon, Attorney-General J. W. Robb, learned John Labatt was released after 60 hours in the hands of kidnappers was in "a state of considerable collapse" after his ordeal. He was under constant care of a physician. Robb was told.

"This office has no knowledge as to what financial arrangements, if any, were made with the criminals. Whatever arrangements were made, neither Hugh Labatt nor his solicitor, Mr. Frey of London, had any hand in their making."

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—John Labatt was kidnapped by two men and released by three or four. He was turned over from the kidnappers' car in northwest Toronto not long after midnight, about three and a half miles from the hotel where he turned up to join his brother Hugh. The identity of his kidnappers is unknown, but it was reported that information whether all or any of the $100,000 demanded was paid.

In the presence of Chief Constable D. C. Draper of Toronto and General V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of provincial police, Attorney General Arthur W. Robb today issued details which had reached him in connection with abduction of the millionaire London brewer, who returned to Toronto last week and haggard early today after more than 60 hours in the hands of his captors.

His arrival resulted in lack of co-operation between the authorities and his friends. There is no hint of any abduction. It is most unfortunate and unnecessary that the police should be kept in the dark as to what financial arrangements, if any, were made with the criminals. Whatever arrangements were made, neither Hugh Labatt nor his solicitor, Mr. Frey of London, had any hand in their making."

GRANDE PRABIE, Aug. 17.—United Germany acts on favor of a hostile world but has the right to expect to be allowed to go its own way in peace. Chancellor Hitler told dispatch workers in an unsolicited waterfront speech this afternoon that the result of the strength of the results.

Hitler, on a tour of Hamburg yesterday, said that the world had been badly shaken by the workers of Hamburg's hard-hat battle against the production of Germany's industrial products.

"I can be so-called," declared Dr. Fuhrer, "that I have a united nation with a leadership backed by the united strength of the results."

HITLER'S FEAR PROMPTED HIS SPEEDY ACTS

Foreign Hostility Made Him Seize Powers of President

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 17.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler told the German nation today foreign hostility towards the Reich prompted him to seize quickly the presidential powers of the late Paul von Hindenburg.

Hitler said he purposed the authority of the president, instantly, and added that his purpose in appointing himself to the place left vacant by von Hindenburg was to forestall national calamity.

"Otherwise we naturally would have chosen another way—first an appeal to the people, and then carrying out of the people's desire," Hitler said.

"In this case the result would have been no different from what it will be now," he said.

But the attitude toward Germany abroad did not permit such calm procedure, the chancellor explained. "We were forced to take the step of appointing myself to the office of Reichspräsident, after a biased and one-sided view of the situation was not a few people outside the Reich who in his day the beginning of serious internal fights in Germany."

"I am sure that we shall never be able to reconcile at once the desire to remain in the position of peace, but as it is often the case, the wish was father to the thought."

Thirty Days Says Judge—Nuts!

Says Prisoner

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—"Come on, speak up," commanded the bailiff when Herman Brown, a prisoner, was brought before Judge A. A. Scott in a plea to a petty theft charge.

"So you won't talk, eh?" mused the court.

"Nuts, your honor—peanuts," he gasped.

"You think just as you called my case—my vice versa—"

The plaintiff swallowed the peanuts, but Judge Scott refused to believe his story and "shut out" a 30-day sentence.

Byng Bungled Cambrai Tank Battle, Claim

Attack Had to be Launched Without Any Reserves—Resounding Victory Turned Into Disastrous Rout

This is the concluding installment from the second series of Lloyd George's war memoirs, of which the most interesting and sensational portions have been receiving exclusive advance publication in the columns of the Lloyd George column of the Edmonton Bulletin. The concluding installment, pointing out that the British attack at Cambrai in November, 1917, started by being brilliantly successful, but was negated for the most part by the initial break-through, Britain's reserves having been exhausted at Passchendaele. This installment contains an interesting, if not complimentary, reference to General Byng's handling of the Battle of Cambrai. Previous installments from the Lloyd George war memoirs have been paid in the Bulletin daily beginning last Saturday.

CHAPTER SIX

Sir William Robertson never denied that there was a good case, and he would have been quite willing to meet the French case. But he was not to be moved from his position for the Flemish campaign. He succeeded in postponing the decision until the campaign was well over. When at last he agreed with the French to the limits of the extension, it was February before the battle could be effected.

When Gough took over the line up to the Oise, he found the defenses were very unsatisfactory, but his troops were tired out by their unparalleled experiences, and he was in no condition to start digging. This was known to the Germans.

The advantage they took of it will be told in a later volume.

Passchendaele was, indeed, one of the greatest disasters of the war, and I never think of it without feeling grateful for the combination of seamanship and luck which enabled us to survive and repair it. There is no better illustration of its calamitous effect than the episode of Cambrai.

When the tank corps officers perceived how completely their predictions as to the effect of a heavy bombardment on a drained morass had been realized, they came to the conclusion that as far as their machinery was concerned, it could render no effective help under such conditions. They were equally convinced that the victory was unsatisfactory by any other arm on such a battle.

They therefore set about making a study of the whole British position with a view to formulating a plan for attacking the enemy on a sector.

"LEFTY" COMEZ BLANKS TIGERS BY 5-0 SCORE

Yanks Bunch Hits in Two Innings Off Vic Sorrell In Opener

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Lefty Vernon Gomez shut out the league-leading Detroit Tigers with eight strikeouts in the first inning, blanking them by a 5-0 score in the opening game of the season for the victors of today's doubleheader, 3-0 played before a crowd of 13,000.

The victory reduced the Tigers' lead to three and one-half games.

Gomez, who was knocked out of the box in the first game of the series, never gave the Tigers a chance today as he hung up his 20th victory in the American League to reach that total this year. The victory also extended his record to two-and-a-half seasons.

BEATTY WASHERS PRICES WILL BE STABILIZED

CODE PROVIDES FOR QUOTA FOR VARIOUS MINES

Cut-throat competition to stop immediately with operation of new rules adopted.

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Aug. 17.—Stabilized prices, based on 1932 prices of domestic coal produced in the Drumheller mining area, will go into effect for the entire domestic coal industry immediately as a result of a resolution of the conference of the Alberta Domestic Coal Producers' Association which concluded last night.

All cut-throat competition, which has been one of the outstanding features of the industry in the past, has been eliminated by the introduction of this new "coal code" which will be administered by a company soon to be formed.

A differential of mine numbers. In addition to price regulation the new "code" also provides for a quota system of production. Each company selling its own product under its quota will also be controlled by the governing body.

The new agreement among producers falls in line with the newly enacted provincial mining and industry act although the original proposal for a central selling agency was dropped when it was obvious that members could not reach any agreement on that question. So far as can be ascertained the operators will be satisfied to have their wage scales on the present basis.

ARGUMENT IN HYDRO PROBE STARTS TODAY

Royal Commission Hears Much Evidence in "Abitibi Deal"

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—Charging a complete change of policy in the Ontario Electric Power Commission, the Ontario Electric Power Commission today began its argument after the evidence had been presented today. Sir Adam Beck, Arthur Elgin, counsel for the royal commission, and the "Abitibi deal" began his argument after the evidence had been presented today.

Sir Adam Beck was the founder of Hydro and Mr. Slaght and his policy was public ownership of the power of power and economical operation.

After his death the "Ferguson-Henry" Price combination abandoned the principle of public ownership and got about buying power from private sources, said Mr. Slaght.

Hydro assumed the load and took over, said Mr. Slaght, "and the private operators and speculators were able to sell their bonds on the strength of their contracts with Hydro."

He referred to the purchase of power from the McLaughlin-Quebec Power Company, the Canadian Power Company and the Beaurivage Power Company, and then said the same practice was followed in the case of the Altona Canyon Power.

"It is better example of political trucking to private interests was exhibited anywhere than in this case," said Mr. Slaght, referring to the "Abitibi" deal.

He said in 1928 former Premier Henry was then acting minister of lands and forests, granted the Hudson's Bay Company a lease of the Abitibi Canyon Power site.

The company, he charged, was a mere shell, a subsidiary of the Abitibi power and paper company set up for the purpose of receiving and holding this lease.

It had no assets and was financially irresponsible for carrying out such a huge development.

Mr. Slaght continued his argument during the day. No evidence was offered at the probe by W. N. Tilley, K.C., counsel for the former Conservative government or by R. H. Hon. Arthur Elgin, former hydro commissioner. As soon as Mr. Slaght's last witness finished his evidence the argument started.

AN UNFORTUNATE SITUATION

Confusion is the necessary result of a decision given by Magistrate Esten Williams of Leduc—relieving the police of duty during the absence of Col. Primrose on holiday—in respect to traffic regulations at the corner of First Street and Jasper.

Since the decision of Magistrate Williams is the reverse of the well-established ruling of Magistrate Primrose, it is not surprising that persons, driver or walker, now know what to do or what might happen to him in court if he obeyed the ruling of either magistrate.

Obviously a very unfortunate and regrettable situation, and liable to result in accidents and legal proceedings, with perhaps some responsibility attaching to the city. It would seem to be desirable, when the police magistrate of a city is on duty, that his place be taken by someone familiar with conditions in the city and with the rulings of the court.

BANDITRY IN CANADA

In Montreal, three men surrounded the automobile of a court officer and shot him dead.

In London, Ont., the street was a great success, was kidnapped and held for ransom.

In Guelph, Ont., two armed men walked into a bank, stood at the counter, gathered up the money in eight, $200, and went their way.

This is one day's record of banditry in Canada. None of the incidents, if it is noted, occurred in the "hot" and "wild" west. And took place in the long-settled provinces of Quebec and Ontario, where law enforcement has been a long and successful tradition.

Perhaps the greatest law-infracted Canada, discouraged at prospects in the United States, where Capone is in jail and Dillinger dead. Perhaps some Canadian youths have taken to violence under pressure of hard times and the example of wealthy racketeers at home and abroad.

The point is that, wherever he came from and wherever he is, the bandit has arrived in Canada. It will be the business of the police and the courts to meet his challenge and put a stop to his operations.

IS IT NECESSARY?

The Government of Alberta is urging the Dominion Government to buy 70,000 head of thin cattle in the dried out districts of this province, have them slaughtered and packed into untagged—the technical name for a tanned plant product which is fed to hogs.

It is impossible to get feed for these cattle, or if they are of a type not suited for slaughter, of course the merciful thing or the sensible thing is to kill them. But in the light of recent experience and present conditions, any fresh departure in the way of food-destruction is to be viewed with misgiving and only sanctioned when absolutely necessary. As a matter of economic policy, there never was justification, excuse or alibi for any such waste as general slaughter of cattle under the name of "culling" and at present this is not even safe.

After plowing under cotton and raising farmers to leave what was left and under the Government of the United States is now slaughtering cattle wholesale in the central and western states, where there is no feed for the pastures and feed crops. There is something like the definite prospect of a beef shortage in the near future, and it is not surprising that Alberta ranchers and farmers with an opportunity that will be of use to them if they have no cattle to sell.

Alberta is not overstocked with cattle. The outlook is for a better, not a poorer, market. In this situation it would be a mistake for the public authority to be dragged into slaughtering cattle unless there is no other way to dispose of them.

STILL PLANNING SCARCITY

The international committee for the prevention of the production and sale of wheat is at it again. The committee, which was organized a couple of months ago, fearing that another season would produce a low price, since Argentina fairly refused to be dragged into slaughtering orders. The delegates have ventured out of their dug-out caves, and are in caucus in London.

The first fruits of the meeting is a report showing that while Canada, the United States, Australia and Danish countries all kept within their quotas last year, Argentina shipped out 34,000,000 bushels more than it was told it could ship—and, as previously reported, sold the committee to like it or lump it.

A further installment of the document shows that while Canada cut its wheat from 10 1/2 million to 10 million, the United States 12 million, and Australia 15 million, Argentina just neglected to send along any official statement on the subject of curtailment. There doesn't seem to be much more or need of speculating as to which of these countries is to get the benefit of the higher prices now prevailing for wheat. The country that has the wheat to sell is the one which will get the benefit.

But the committee is still strong for curtailment and more of it—with the exception no doubt of Hon. Walter Elliott, standing conspicuously the fact that Great Britain has increased its crop by six per cent. Drought has withered the fields in Canada and the United States. Australia reports unfavorable weather, as does the Argentine. Daily dispatches from London predict a reduction of the world's supply of wheat to the dimensions of a desperately large carry-over.

These things mean nothing to the international committee of course. Pledged to the idea that scarcity is the supreme good, the committee is out to help drought, grass-hoppers, cutworms, hail storms and wind bring ruin by face to face with wheat shortage.

The international committee had better be curbed before it becomes an international menace.

Poems That Live

A WIFE'S SONG

O well I love the Spring,

When the birds are singing

And I love the Summer,

And the coming of the rain;

But I love the Winter best,

And the year upon the snow,

For O, they bring the blessed time,

That brings him home again.

November may be dreary,

December may be cold,

At full of gloom to others

As once they were to me;

But O, to love the winter,

Best loved of all the year!

For the yearning word and the blessed time

That brings him home again.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COOPER

Since the articles of three weeks ago appeared, telling of a holiday trip up the B.C. coast, several readers have written asking for more information about coastal ranching. The thought of a winter cruise, with a little of the hunting and fishing, makes it appealing.

It is to try and find out time to time to answer each inquiry personally. But to give advice to others is to give them a headache. Everything depends on the individual. There are probably 50 different ways of doing things at coastal ranching, and at any other kind of business. The only rule is to follow the lead of the successful and to depend on the experience of the successful.

J. S. Cooper reached only by steamers. The Vancouver city council has acknowledged failure of a winter cruise, sent families from the relief lines in the city to live on farms. They spent $500 in setting up each family. Most of the requests spent the $500 long before the year was out and wanted to return to the city.

Yet there are hundreds of successful coastal ranchers who have achieved success without outside aid. It depends on the individual, his fitness and will.

There's one argument, however, with which they all agree. They all say "A fine life, if only one had a little money coming in."

SHASTAS WIN SECOND STRAIGHT BALL PLAYOFF

Endeavour Pictured Being Towed off Newport, R.I.

British challenger for America's cup with sails reefed.

RAT PANS by BILL LEWIS

Murray Murdoch's band of Shastas made it tougher than ever for the Royals in the Senior Baseball League playoffs last night. The Murdochs' team, which rather than being on the bench in this fourth-of-sevens game series, played the first two games out of the race as yet but straight losses forced them to get into action if they are to get anywhere in the title chase.

The best part of a consecutive effort at this team suffered the start has a chance to recover its stride, however, it is not clear if a team that stumbled the last night is knocked right into the cold. However, it is no coin for any club to beat these Shastas.

Hanger Guidolin, second of the winners' young pitchers to go in action, justified the prediction of a slugging assignment by hurling Royals down with four straight hits. That might fine work in a series of this importance and the "Hanger" was worthy of his shout-out.

One thing about Manager Murdoch is that he makes no secret of his intentions. He has been so open about his plans that the Royals have been able to anticipate his moves.

Bobby Prevor finally passed from contention in the fourth round of the Canadian Amateur golf tournament yesterday, but he went down with colors flying as far as the local college fraternity is concerned. That he could reach the top of a championship of merit of this importance in his first attempt at major competitive play is a distinct credit to him and augurs well for his future success.

Tommy Morrison, Mayfair professional, has had a good night in young Prevor and, with experience gained in lessons of this nature, he will be a leading threat in any event he enters before much time passes.

CRICKET WAR STARTS ANEW AGAINST VOCE

Aussies Protest Over Englishman's Style of Bowling

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The old controversy over that stinging style of bowling called "bodyline" which has not only captured relations between Australia and England but also has won new vigor, virtually on the eve of the fifth and decisive match of the season between the two countries.

England calls this form of bowling a fast bouncer ball directed at the stumps which is not a cricketing perfection closer than others.

The Aussies call the more aggressive style "bodyline" bowling, and they are not at all surprised. Especially since it was a late form of the English style in the last of the ancient series in Australia in 1932-3.

William Voce, fast bowler of Nottinghamshire, caused the Aussie-England row when he bowled a match at Nottingham for seven weeks, eight weeks in this fashion for only 65 runs. The Aussies were angry.

Voce's withdrawal followed by a test match which inevitably was taken up by the "bodyline" explanation he was given. He refused to be interviewed and he was forced to be interviewed by the press.

MAY FORBID MATCH

Some English experts insisted that the Aussies had really been the victors of the series, but that even if Voce is not at the invited last it is possible he may play. He headed last night for a true spirit of cricket and less violence.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 17.—The football of the Verdon City, Montreal, and Prince Albert associations championship. The eastern champions humbled Prince Albert City Reds, Western Canada's finalists, by a score of 4-1 in a return for the first time since last year's victory by the Toronto Scotches.

A crowd of 2000 saw the Packers take a lead of 2-1 in the first half and increase their margin by two goals in the second half. In the third of their three-match series with the Red Devils, the Scotches led in the seventh minute when Holmbeck, a half-back, scored from a goal-mouth scramble. Huffer, a full-back, equalized for the Red Devils 20 minutes later, but Prince Albert struck back in the 35th minute when the Scotches' half-back, Verdon, scored a goal. The Scotches' half-back, Verdon, scored a goal.
